TWO TUSCAN "TREASURE" IN THE SAME TOUR

The tour starts with the visit of a cheese factory, which has the aim of constantly renewing and developing with full respect for tradition and it is looking ahead from its headquarters in the heart of Tuscany, increasing production yet keeping the quality of its products unchanged. Careful selection of milks and the working methods have not changed over the years. This important aspect is particularly notable in the traditional production of cheese using raw milk, in the dry salting process – carried out exclusively using a type of salt that comes from the nearby salt flat of Volterra -, in the shaping by hand and in the treatment of the outside of the cheeses using natural products such as extra virgin olive oil, tomato paste and olive grounds and, last but not least, in the slow maturation on shelves of spruce and beds of straw, in both controlled and natural environments. Then we'll visit a winery in the typical Tuscan hilly countryside and it's a family-run company. It's ideal for people who would experience the authentic Tuscany, learning about one of its typical product: the wine. Visiting this winery, you could have relaxing moments, drinking a good wine and learning about Tuscan culture and traditions. SLOW DOWN AND RECLAIM YOUR WELLBEING

For centuries, the thermal waters flowing have been appreciated for their healing properties. As a favourite of the Etruscans and the Romans, as well as the Medici family, the hot springs of Pisa rose to fame in 1743 when the Grand Duke of Tuscany, Francis Stephen of Lorraine, decided to build his summer spa residence here. Over the years, it has regained its glamour and splendour, due to a series of renovations and restorations that brought new life to architecture, frescoes, vaults and marbles, which make up an integral part of our wellness treatments. Today, this spa resort in Tuscany is a place where you can enjoy a refreshing variety of thermal spa services, as well as health and weight-loss programs, relaxation therapies and beauty treatments. Our traditional thermal therapies feature mud and inhalation techniques for both adults and children, and are combined with thermal cosmology, aesthetic medicine treatments, eastern medicine, fitness and massage therapy, as well as weight-loss and detox programs, to implement a healthier lifestyle for you.
